Conservatory of Music

Do not stop. Let it continue in whatever you do, whether you are composing, performing, producing songs, teaching the next generation, or conducting business. And above all have fun. One of the world's great musicians, Wynton Marsalis, said it best, "Life is like playing the blues, so always bring your horn. Know the tune. Learn to listen with empathy. Understand your role in the ensemble. And most of all, enjoy playing." You have been bound together here with thousand others in the awareness that life proposes a lifelong search to understand, to love, to give something to the world. Let it continue wherever you go.

Congratulations to each one of you not only for your accomplishments but also for the promise you hold for your own lives, your family, and also for your country.
